Glee Club Fetes Olive Lee at Bridal Shower

Feted at one of the season's loveliest bridal showers was Olive Lee, soon to be married to Charles Wittenberg of Tonah, Nevada. The party was held at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Ralston, 1667 Gramercy avenue, attended by some 43 women friends and arranged by members of the American Legion Auxiliary Glee Club.

Arriving at the Ralston home at 9:00 p. m. supposedly to meet friends from Los Angeles, Mrs. Lee was greeted by shouts of surprise, surprise. Walking nonchalantly into the spacious dining room a table breath-taking in its loveliness greeted her.

A tree of gardenias was placed in the center of the long table with garlands of the same flower reaching from the tree to the table ends. Six tall white tapers in low silver holders and the table set in Sharp's rock crystal glassware, which was a gift from the assembled group completed the surprise in magic manner. More than 100 gardenias were used.

Games of charade, silence is golden and story writing furnished entertainment until old Nancy appeared and in weird manner read the stories, which dealt with the lives of the betrothed couple.

THE PULSE OF AN EMPIRE

If you could sit with the system operator at the control board in one of the Edison distributing stations, you would see the dials register the wide fluctuation in the demand for current.

Here are recorded not only the regular changes caused by fixed habits of people on their way to lunch, to theatres and homes, but scarcely an important event can fail to affect in some manner, the transmission of supply of electricity.

It is known almost instinctively when people begin to alter their ways of working and living. When business and industry begin to expand or contract, the change is indicated in the control room. The Editor System must be ready at all times to provide the essentials that such changes require—to meet the maximum demand at any given moment without endangering the margin of safety which dependable operation requires.

Since its beginning, the Edison Company has continuously provided the electrical power facilities needed for the development and prosperity of the Southwest Empire. Not only the quantity, but the character of service as well, has changed and developed as the requirements of this territory have increased.

The Edison "Company" includes not only 4000 employees and 108,000 stockholders, but 500,000 consumers—the consumers must be included because it is their needs—the company exists to serve. It is this "Company," which has worked and will continue to work together both to supply the best of electric service and to further other developments which will make Central and Southern California a still better place in which to live and work.
